Towards a Next-Gen Group of Experts on Non Proliferation of WMDs and Security Issues

Opportunity to join high level meetings and undergo a specialized training

The Arab Institute of Security Studies announces the launch of the third cycle of the Next Generation Forum for Young Experts and Professionals taking place in Amman during November 07-08, 2018. The forum provides an important opportunity to engage with various leaders in the field of international security, disarmament and foreign affairs. The Next-Gen Forum seeks to spread awareness on international issues within students and young professionals possessing leadership qualities. Nominated individuals will be able to join two parallel events, namely:

November 07, 2018

The Amman Security Colloquium is a high level event that is organized by the Arab Institute of Security Studies. This event is one of the few annual gatherings dedicated to discussing emerging security challenges regionally and internationally. Ministerial figures, military leaders, and representatives of foreign policy agencies, civil society, and international organizations will participate. This is a unique opportunity for directly interacting and exchanging views with local and international politicians, decision makers and diplomats.

November 08, 2018

This is an advanced training session offered to university students and young professionals. The training will be conducted by a team of ambassadors and international staff. Candidates undergoing this training will be exposed to issues relating to nuclear security, WMD free zone in the Middle East, the use of non-conventional capabilities, the growing role of non-state actors .. etc. Participants will receive official certificates upon completion of the program.
